PROJECTS

● Avid4Colorado

Worked with a client that approached me to prototype an app for their non-profit. They wanted a facebook enabled app that would encourage parents to spend more time with their kids outdoors. I worked with them and came up with an app that tracks the number of hours spent doing outdoor activities and adds it to a total until they reach their goal. When families meet the goal Avid4Colorado awards prizes. This is an ongoing project with a planned deployment date in May. Technologies: AngularJS, OAuth 2.0, Cloudinary image API integration. ### ● TopSoil

Designed to encourage urban farming, TopSoil is a web platform that connects people in denver who have land available for farming with people who are looking for a place to farm. Users can log in with facebook and make public posts based on if they are offering or looking for a place to grow food.

Technologies: Bootstrap

● Drone Tracker

Drone Tracker is an interactive infographic that plots all publicly reported US drone strikes in the middle east since 2003. Users can display strikes by year, and click on the the strikes to get more info as well as links to relevant news articles.

Technologies: JQuery, API Data Manipulation, Google Maps API.

● MEAN tea

I built a fully functioning mock webstore using Angular. users can search and sort items by name and price, add them to a cart, and checkout.
